Defense of port

Arthur Very Costly.
Tokio, Jan. 9.—It is believed the Russian casualties at Port Arthur will total about twenty-five thousand.

Nagasaki, Jan. 9.—One thousand wounded Russian prisoners of war from Port Arthur have arrived at Daiichi hospital.

Tokio, Jan. 9.—The Japanese who express great admiration for Gen. Fock and other officers for refusing parole and standing by the men of their army are busy preparing to receive the Russian prisoners from Port Arthur.

The first batch of ten thousand are expected to arrive at Moji shortly. After disinfection, they will be sent to Malsama, Mimiji, Kyoto and other places.

The generals will be treated in the best possible manner. It is unlikely any of the prisoners will be brought to Tokio.

The Gazette announces today that the Russians have delivered five survivors of the third Japanese expedition to block the entrance to Port Arthur harbor.

St. Petersburg, Jan.—Witte, as Interior Minister Sviatopolk-Mirsky's successor, and holding a position in the councils of Emperor Nicholas, approaching Gen. Loris Melikof during the trying nihilistic days of Alexander II., may be one of the startling results of the contest waged over the question of interior reforms.

The popular idea has been that Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky and M. Witte were acting in harmony in this matter, but the Associated Press learns from the highest sources that exactly the opposite is the fact. They are near rivals and opponents than friends.

The difficulty of Minister Sviatopolk-Mirsky's role since he assumed office, owing to the powerful influence arrayed against him, has been unable to hold his own with continued marks of the emperor's confidence and approval.

With M. Witte's advent upon the scene, however, the situation changed. Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky stuck manfully by his guns defending the policy on which he accepted office, but he found M. Witte antagonizing the very principles which he found vital, thus rallying his opponents on his side and the prince found the ground slipping from under him. M. Witte prevailed in the matter of imperial manifesto, the heavy terms of which did meet with Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky's views. According to the latter's friends, the contest was resumed immediately on the reconvening of the committee of ministers, the prince finding that M. Witte opposed the proposition to invite in a consultative capacity the various classes

He Weariest of Success.

Exchange.
The mysterious disappearance of a reputable and successful business man of Lafayette, Ind., five years ago, and his recent reappearance, with the explanation that he had simply grown "tired of everything" had sought a new life, does not appear so strange to the heart as it does to the mind. Such a feeling is incomprehensible to the intellect, yet it is a more or less familiar one to those hidden depths of human nature where lie the real life forces. Are there not times, often perhaps than we will admit, when the most favored and happiest of us become "tired of everything"? Is it uncommon for successful men whose business has become thoroughly systematized and whose work has become routine to long for the stress and strain, the risk and the spirit of adventure that gave glorious exhilaration in their earlier days of struggle? Paradoxical as it may seem, it is simple truth that we weary of pleasures and ease sooner than of sorrow and toil.

This Indiana man had a prosperous business, a comfortable fortune, pleasant family relations and the respect of his neighbors. Maybe you think nothing more is necessary to perfect content. But if you think that, think again.

The happiest laugh does not ring out from the home of such men as this. The most radiant smiles are those that alternate with tears.

Wealth, good repute, and family even, are externals. There is another world in which a man really lives—the world of his ideals; and when these have dulled and leveled down to commonplace, and aspiration has atrophied, and effort ceased, his surroundings, however favorable, turn into the tomb of a soul that is dead.

Some may say this Lafayette man was crazy. Maybe he was. For the matter of that, whose mind is not more or less balanced? But the real significance lies in the fact that most of the insane come from the ranks of those whose "success" has caused their degeneracy into idleness of spirit.

Will we never learn that the real joy, the real health, the real success of life, lie not in the achievement but in the effort?

No More Stomach Troubles

All stomach trouble is removed by the use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It gives the stomach perfect rest by digesting what you eat without the stomach's aid. The food builds up the body and restores the stomach to its normal condition. You don't have to diet your health. You can take Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. J. D. Erskine, of Allentown, Mich., says, "I suffered heartburn and stomach trouble for some time. My sister-in-law had the same trouble. She was not able to eat in six weeks. After taking two bottles of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure she was entirely cured. She now eats heartily and is in good health. I am glad to say Kodol gave me instant relief." Sold by W. H. Ellis.

It frequently happens that an apology is more hurtful than was the offense.

The success of one man may come through the mistake of another man.

Occasionally it would be well to take to yourself some of the advice given to others.

A love is least interesting when only a single person is concerned.

Many men, as well as women, waste precious time trying to get something for nothing.

It always seems easy to correct the failure made by some one else.

To Fix Date For State Fair.

The Executive Committee of the State Agricultural Society, will meet in Macon on February 8th to fix the time and place for the holding of the next state fair. There will be some pretty lively bidding for it by the different cities. Atlanta has already got her coat off, so to speak, and gone to work in dead earnest. She is raising a big sum with which to back up her bid.

Macon made $9,000.00 profit on its last year besides the great amount of trade that her merchants got out of the crowds, and she, too, is making active preparations to take care of her interest in the matter of securing the fair. Savannah and Valdosta are both making good eyes at the Agricultural Society. They are willing to take the fair if no other city wants it.

Statesboro hasn't decided to put in a bid yet, but, in any event, Bulloch will have a big agricultural display at the fair, no matter where it is held. Local citizens means nothing to us. We are loaded for it, wherever it meets.

Mr. Miller is already making active preparations for the exhibit. We won second prize before and are seeing that no stake is left unturned that we may get first prize this year.

Presbyterian Church.

There will be service at this church on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights conducted by the pastor, as preliminary to the meeting which will begin Monday night, conducted by Rev. G. W. Bell, of Tenth, av. Presbyterian church, Charlotte, N. C. We cordially invite all to attend these services.

Samuel Wilds DuBoe.

Vandals at Work.

One night last week some one entered the grave yard known as the Young burial grounds, near Blitch, and opened several of the graves. Parties passing the next day saw where the graves had been disturbed and an examination was made. It was found that the grave of a man named Jones, who had died many years ago had been tampered with, and the head board was found in a field nearby. It is thought that robbery was the cause of the deed.

REFORM CAN COME ONLY THROUGH REFORMERS.

Waycross Journal.
In the beginning of the Osborne-Morris controversy, many sincere people, who knew them both as regular politicians, belonging to what is known as the state "machine," suspected that the controversy was a planned affair from which they both expected to reap some notoriety, of an affair fixed up by the state "machine" to forestall a real reform movement which the politicians saw coming on, and which they believed would sweep the state if properly managed.

As yet, there is no certainty that one of these schemes is not true. Osborne, in its effort on the part of Osborne to elect West of Valdosta to the presidency of the senate. Some avow that he is preparing to manage Col. Kettill's gubernatorial campaign, and still others say that he has congressional aspirations, and is trying to build up his chances for the race two years hence.

It is not at all strange that no one, as yet heard from creditable sources, has a high motive and an honest purpose. The distrust lies in the fact that Mr. Osborne is boss of Savannah politics and Savannah politics is about the vilest to be found in the state.

There is a fundamental conviction in the minds of most men that reform should always begin at home, and if Mr. Osborne is really sincere, he would have begun his campaign by cleaning up his own front yard.

Concerning the purpose of Mr. Osborne, there is a further hypothesis, however, which, in our opinion, deserves more credence than any of the ideas that have been advanced by the theorists. It is this: Mr. Osborne is a shrewd politician, and he sees the tendency of the age, which is no other than radical reform in local, state and national politics. He believes that Georgia is on the verge of a political revolution, that the time is ripe for it, and he—Osborne—wants to get on the bandwagon and, if possible, drive the team.

To be sure, this is a laudable ambition for a young politician or even a statesman, and we have no quarrel with Mr. Osborne for coveting the berth. He is perfectly justifiable in his ambitions, and we would that one so able as he were fit to take the lead in this enterprise of reforming the great state of Georgia.

But, alas! Billy Osborne has a record that tells a very sincere lover of pure politics and righteous government. Everybody believes what Billy Osborne says, but very few believe Billy Osborne. Unquestionably he has got forth the substance of a splendid campaign and a needed reform, and has done it in lucid and forceful manner, but in so doing he has convicted nearly every action in his public career and stands forth today as one of the chiefest of political sinners with no virtue to commend him and his splendid ability, which, in the event of any public preferment, might become a tower of bigness in the state. A weak public official is bad enough, but a strong bad man makes public life popular.

We are glad Mr. Osborne has started on this career of reform. There is no disposition among those who fought for his reforms to discount his effort, but really, he has done nothing more than to see an opportunity and embrace it. He did not make the opportunity.

A weak public official is bad enough, but a strong bad man makes public life popular.

We are glad Mr. Osborne has started on this career of reform. There is no disposition among those who fought for his reforms to discount his effort, but really, he has done nothing more than to see an opportunity and embrace it. He did not make the opportunity.

REFORM CAN COME ONLY THROUGH REFORMERS.

Waycross Journal.
In the beginning of the Osborne-Morris controversy, many sincere people, who knew them both as regular politicians, belonging to what is known as the state "machine," suspected that the controversy was a planned affair from which they both expected to reap some notoriety, of an affair fixed up by the state "machine" to forestall a real reform movement which the politicians saw coming on, and which they believed would sweep the state if properly managed.

As yet, there is no certainty that one of these schemes is not true. Osborne, in its effort on the part of Osborne to elect West of Valdosta to the presidency of the senate. Some avow that he is preparing to manage Col. Kettill's gubernatorial campaign, and still others say that he has congressional aspirations, and is trying to build up his chances for the race two years hence.

It is not at all strange that no one, as yet heard from creditable sources, has a high motive and an honest purpose. The distrust lies in the fact that Mr. Osborne is boss of Savannah politics and Savannah politics is about the vilest to be found in the state.

There is a fundamental conviction in the minds of most men that reform should always begin at home, and if Mr. Osborne is really sincere, he would have begun his campaign by cleaning up his own front yard.

Concerning the purpose of Mr. Osborne, there is a further hypothesis, however, which, in our opinion, deserves more credence than any of the ideas that have been advanced by the theorists. It is this: Mr. Osborne is a shrewd politician, and he sees the tendency of the age, which is no other than radical reform in local, state and national politics. He believes that Georgia is on the verge of a political revolution, that the time is ripe for it, and he—Osborne—wants to get on the bandwagon and, if possible, drive the team.

To be sure, this is a laudable ambition for a young politician or even a statesman, and we have no quarrel with Mr. Osborne for coveting the berth. He is perfectly justifiable in his ambitions, and we would that one so able as he were fit to take the lead in this enterprise of reforming the great state of Georgia.

But, alas! Billy Osborne has a record that tells a very sincere lover of pure politics and righteous government. Everybody believes what Billy Osborne says, but very few believe Billy Osborne. Unquestionably he has got forth the substance of a splendid campaign and a needed reform, and has done it in lucid and forceful manner, but in so doing he has convicted nearly every action in his public career and stands forth today as one of the chiefest of political sinners with no virtue to commend him and his splendid ability, which, in the event of any public preferment, might become a tower of bigness in the state. A weak public official is bad enough, but a strong bad man makes public life popular.

We are glad Mr. Osborne has started on this career of reform. There is no disposition among those who fought for his reforms to discount his effort, but really, he has done nothing more than to see an opportunity and embrace it. He did not make the opportunity.

The dear people will learn a few things when the politicians begin telling on each other.

These cold days is a good time to "take in" new grounds, and move out the fences.

The campaign for Governor is opening up early, and the people will have a good chance to find out where who.

Remember you can't eat cotton, and that everything raised on the farm will bring the cash. Raise home supplies and keep down big store accounts.

Harvie Jordan advised the farmers to hold their cotton when it was bringing ten cents a pound.
Now that it is about six cents a pound, he also advises the farmers to hold on until it goes to ten cents.

Business is scarce in all lines of labor, and the farmer, mill men, and navy stores operators all complain. This means that some of the bosses will have to take hold of the handle.

The News extends a warm welcome to all of its subscribers to drop in, but the delinquent will be made into the prodigal son, if he will work over.

The Osborne-Morris Row
In his open letter last Sunday in the Savannah News, Osborne proceeded to give some facts on the political situation in Georgia.
While Osborne has been recognized as a member of the "gang," we are always ready to shake hands with a fellow when he gets "right." Repetition never comes too late, and the real reformers in Georgia are ready to receive additions to their number, for they have "bitten" the minority for several years. A few men, independent and fearless, have been protesting for years against corporate, and big game in Georgia, but an awakening is at hand, and there is going to be a shaking up of the dry bones in the political valley.

Some of the high Cockloftoms, and Meek-a-hicks, who have been "bossing" the state and the little statesmen, and sticking their fingers in the public business, are going to hit the grit.
It may be alright for a few "bosses" to get together and name the governors, United States senators, and other officials in states like New York and Pennsylvania, but Georgians are too independent to long submit to such dictation. Nobody is going to do the railroads and other corporations any harm, because they are all necessary for our welfare, but they do not propose that the mercenaries of the corporations shall run the state.

Now let Osborne go on and tell the people all the facts, and name all the mercenaries, show the efforts of the Southern railway agents to dictate all legislation, the evils of the free pass system, tell us why the Southern railway should not be made a domestic corporation, about the efforts good men have made to protect the little children in factories, "bossism" in politics, etc., and it will help clear up the political atmosphere in this state, and he might add a verse or two on honest elections and the influence of money and liquor in elections. If we are going to clean out the Anglo-Saxons, let us turn the "bosses" of the water on the whole business, and it will be worth while.

A Perfect

This is done so that the farmers extent that this company has done, and we are sure that their action will be duly appreciated by the thousands of men in this state who will be assisted by this step.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the Best Made.
"In my opinion, Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best made 'for coughs,' says Mrs. Gora Walker of Porterville, California. There is no doubt about its being the best. No other will cure a cold so quickly. No other is so sure a preventive of pneumonia. No other is so pleasant and safe to take. These are good reasons why it should be preferred to any other.
The fact is that few people are satisfied with any other after having once used the remedy. For sale by All Druggists.

Philadelphians' detectives have just worked out a rather odd graveyard mystery. For some months there have been "mystictic" robberies in one of the cemeteries of the ribbons on floral pieces with which graves were decorated. The ribbons used are invariably of best quality, and sometimes a "bank" of roses or a design will contain several yards of it. The detectives believe they have traced the robberies to two women, who conduct a millinery shop. It must make Philadelphia women shudder to think that possibly they have been wearing on their hats ribbons that were stolen from graves.—Ex.

No More Stomach Troubles
All stomach trouble is removed by the use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It gives the stomach perfect rest by digesting what you eat without the stomach's aid. The food builds up the body and rest restores the stomach to health. You don't have to diet yourself when taking Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. J. D. Erskine, of Allentown, Mich., says, "I suffered heartburn and stomach trouble for some time. My sister-in-law has had the same trouble and was not able to eat in six weeks.
She lived entirely on warm water.
After taking two bottles of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure she was entirely cured.
She now eats heartily and is in good health. I am glad to say Kodol gave me instant relief." Sold by W. H.

TAKES LIFE POLICY FOR $500,000.
Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York.
Chicago, Jan. 16.—An important milestone in the life of a Buffalo boy who came west to make his fortune twenty years ago, was marked this week when Charles Netcheer, proprietor of the Boston Store, took out a life insurance policy for $500,000 in the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York. The policy, which is payable to Mr. Netcheer's wife, is said to be by far the largest ever issued on the life of a Chicagoan. Mr. Netcheer says: "I selected the policy of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, after I had obtained the best available expert advice upon life insurance."
Half-million dollar policies are scarce. Of the four one-million-dollar policies ever written, three were in the Mutual Life, including one on the life of Geo. W. Vanderbilt.
A well known New York banker and financier, has just taken out in the Mutual Life, the largest single policy ever issued for $2,000,000.
The Mutual Life has recently issued the largest policy ever taken out by a citizen of Georgia—namely, one for $100,000. (The Mutual Life insures all but $250,000 of these large policies.)
It is not reasonable to suppose that they consider the Mutual Life the BEST?
Why not you profit by the benefits of their experience, investigation and example?
If they consider it the BEST COMPANY in which to carry a million-dollar policy, would it not be to your interest to investigate the merits of the Mutual Life when you are ready to take out a One, Two, Five or Ten thousand policy?
Why not take out your next policy in the company which has paid to policy holders nearly Two Hundred Millions more than any other company in the world, and now holds for the protection of its policyholders Four Hundred and One Million Dollars?
Your name and date of birth, on a postal card, will bring you figures on any form of policy you may desire.

Speech of Mr. Graves
On Jackson Day Before the Duckworth Club.
We give below some clippings and thoughts from the speech of the Hon. John Temple Graves, on Jackson Day, before the Duckworth Club of Cincinnati.
Mr. Graves is not only eloquent, but one of the most forecast and convincing orators of today. He says before the Democratic party can ever be successful it must return to the faith of the fathers.
We have got to withdraw our support from the golden calf of August Belmont and sit once more at the feet of Jefferson and Jackson to regain the old but young democracy. The need of today is definite democracy.
The people are tired of platforms that mean nothing.
They want a platform, that will embody their principles without useless words—a platform that every American voter can grasp in his hat.
He says:
1. Reform the robber tariff.
2. Regulate the criminal trust.
3. Equalize taxation if it takes an income tax to do it.
4. Shorten the hours and improve the surroundings of labor.
5. Keep infants children out of the factories.
6. Arbitrate the wrangles of labor and capital.
7. And put in stripes any man who buys or bullies an American ballot.
This, according to Mr. Graves, is the kind of platform to win success in 1908. This is the democracy for which our fathers stood.
This is the democracy that will never be crushed to the earth, yet it will rise and serve as a pall-bearer to the Republican party and Republican principles.
The least that we could say of this eloquent speech of Mr.
Graves is that he has sounded the bugle call for 1908.
